We've teamed up with the National Crime Agency to make our filtering service safer than ever

Together with the National Crime Agency, we've developed an innovative and unique new safeguarding solution: Educational Block Pages.

The new educational block feature (included as standard with our filtering service) will not only protect school children from accessing harmful content, but will also educate them and help them to make better choices.

With cyber crime on the rise among young people, and cyber attacks on schools increasing, we partnered up with the NCA's National Cyber Crime unit to create an educational block page targeted towards cyber crime. This block page is displayed when search terms related to cyber crime are entered on a school network, such as "How to DDoS". The block page advises on the dangers of cyber crime, and directs children to the NCA's Cyber Choices website, where they can learn how to put their cyber skills to better use.

Not only does this protect children from harmful content, and potentially divert them from committing a criminal act, it can also help to prevent cyber attacks on your school.
